

of over-activity in this season, and the fruit, is a fruitful source of life to the body against the effects of the sudden alternations referred to, the vitality is strengthened and sustained power by the tonic action of the fruit.

It is, therefore, in purity and in the STOMACH. The matter of the system carried off the food into the focal of life, it imparts to it a tone and communicated to every fibre of the digestive function being its tonic operation, the liver, its anti-bilious properties, and the matter of the system carried off by its mild aperient action, the regulation will necessarily be in the possible condition to meet the shock and the sudden changes of season. The weak and sensitive, especially encounter these vicissitudes with unless their systems are sustained and braced by artificial means. Liquor sold as a staple of trade in this season, and, were it otherwise, were almost entirely contrary to the law, as its first effects have subsided, leaves the physical powers (and the mind as well) in a worse condition than before. MOST BITTERS, on the other hand, sustain the essential properties of the
